PARMIGIANO FONDUTA FILLING

INGREDIENTS

474 g	Heavy cream
225 g	Parmigiano-reggiano, finely grated
27 g	Egg yolks, stirred
quantity not given	Salt

METHOD

1. Bring the cream to a bare simmer in a saucepan over medium heat.
2. Drop the heat to low and hold it there until the cream has reduced by a third, 1 to 1½ hours. Watch the bottom of the pan, it scorches easily.
3. Let the cream stand 5 minutes.
4. Pour it into a high-speed blender. Run the blender on low to medium and rain the parmigiano in slowly, until the mixture emulsifies. Taste before you salt, because the cheese brings a lot of salinity already.
5. With the blender still turning, trickle the yolks in so they temper instead of splitting the mixture.
6. Cover and refrigerate at least 1 hour before piping.

NOTES

No wine and no flour. This fonduta is cheese, reduced cream and enough yolk to bind.
It is piped cold and melts in the pot, finishing with the texture of a runny egg yolk.
The yolks go in as a thin drizzle with the blender running. Dumped in, they break the emulsion.
Filling held several hours or overnight needs 30 minutes out of the refrigerator before it will pipe.
Reducing the cream slowly over 1 to 1½ hours is deliberate. A scorched pan bottom carries straight into the filling.
